2023 Commitment to Community

The Indiana Bankers Association Commitment to Community Awards support the Association's Tell the Story initiative to showcase bank community service. Two awards are given each year, representing asset sizes under $500 million and $500 million and above. The story of banking is one of helpful outreach and selfless support of the communities that banks serve. Kudos to the 25 banks that submitted nominations for the 2023 IBA C2C Awards!

★ Asset size: Under $500 million

Alliance Bank, Francesville Finalist

As a locally owned community bank, Alliance Bank is "all in" when it comes to supporting its communities. In 2023 the bank broke $100,000 donated to local nonprofit organizations for the first time in its history, and employees volunteered an average of 15 hours each. In response to local issues with childcare and housing, the bank made a five-year commitment of $25,000 to Appleseed Childhood Education in Jasper County, a $7,500 commitment for a grant match to the Childcare Coalition of Pulaski County and $5,000 to the Pulaski County Housing Taskforce. It is imperative to the bank to have a pulse on the most pressing needs of the community and prioritize outreach efforts for maximum impact.

Alliance Bank

Bath State Bank

In 2023, Bath State Bank's 99th year in banking, the bank emphasized financial literacy outreach to high school students by partnering with a local rural high school and continuing its outreach with Junior Achievement. The bank operates an intermittent school branch facility to provide real-world banking experiences to high school students, in addition to financial literacy education. Financial education is of particular importance as personal finance has become part of the graduation requirement curriculum. Bath State Bank employees taught nearly 50 classroom presentations in 2023 from kindergarten to high school grade levels. Overall, the bank delivered support to more than 200 organizations totaling almost $100,000 this past fiscal year.

Bath State Bank

Bippus State Bank, Huntington

Bippus State Bank measures its outreach by the impact it makes on the community. Giving back to the community is more than just giving out donations – it's also about providing activities and opportunities to the community that they may not have without volunteers. The bank aims to give employees as many opportunities as possible to get involved, including during work hours, on the weekends and during the evening to ensure everyone has some opportunity to volunteer. Bippus State Bank believes it is vital to show the community that the bank stands with them and is here to support them.

Bippus State Bank

2023 Commitment to Community

Fowler State Bank

Finalist

Fowler State Bank serves the three most sparsely populated counties in Indiana and considers the communities it serves to be like family. If someone needs help, all hands are on deck at the bank. From making donations to local 4-H programs and food pantries to volunteering at the local movie theater, the bank seeks to support the community at large, whether those who benefit are customers or not. Several staff members volunteer on various boards, and even more are involved in local organizations such as Rotary, Benton Community Foundation, Earl Park Fall Festival Foundation, Fair/4-H Board and more. Above all, the bank strives to uphold its motto: "Community Owned. Community Grown. Community Focused."

Fowler State Bank

Home Bank, Martinsville

Finalist

Home Bank's vision, mission and culture are focused upon service to others with the goal to improve quality of life for all in the bank's community. In 2023 the bank focused on three major initiatives for outreach: financial support for local nonprofits, leadership by the bank with the Better Communities Coalition and financial literacy outreach. All three areas of outreach share a focus upon a group of core issues facing the bank's market communities. Notably, the bank's community gifting program allocates 10% of its net income each month for donation to local nonprofit organizations. The bank's outreach efforts provide a platform to share how community banks care for and are engaged to serve and help others.

Home Bank

Logansport Savings Bank

At Logansport Savings Bank, being a community bank means that it gives time, talent and financial support to both its customers and local communities. In 2023, the bank gave over $60,000 in charitable contributions and donations that supported dozens of local schools, student athletes, kids and families, and various nonprofit organizations across multiple counties in north central Indiana. Outreach efforts include participation and volunteerism by more than 30 employees in and around the communities that the bank serves. The bank believes that banking is built on relationships, and the story of banking shines through when people see, know and trust their local bank as a community supporter.

Logansport Savings Bank

Wayne Bank and Trust Company, Richmond

Wayne Bank believes that supporting the community means remembering the past, looking forward to the future and seizing the here and now. Since 1882 the bank has served its local communities and actively invests in people

★ Asset size: $500 million and above

Busey Bank, Champaign, Illinois

Serving the community is in Busey Bank's DNA as a culture. In 2023 the bank's Indiana team joined forces with Gleaners Food Bank and served 400 families in just one service day to meet the needs of those encountering food insecurity. This partnership lasted the full year, with staff continuing to support Gleaners by providing more volunteers, financial investment and food donations collected at the branch. The bank offers various benefits around volunteering, including paid volunteer time off and recognition incentives. Throughout its 156-year history, the bank has been guided by a constant commitment and fixed focus on a promise to its four pillars – associates, customers, communities and shareholders.

Centier Bank, Merrillville

Centier Bank's outreach strategically aligns with its mission of "Enriching lives through caring relationships and financial guidance for an even better tomorrow." The bank's engagement extends beyond traditional philanthropy, incorporating nonprofits into various initiatives, such as casual for a cause days and annual donation matching programs with organizations like the United Way. In 2023, the bank clocked approximately $1 million in donations to 600+ organizations and over 26,000 volunteer hours by 65% of associates. The bank's priority isn't just providing banking services; it's about cultivating relationships, fostering financial growth and ensuring that everyone feels heard and supported on their unique financial journey.

Busey Bank

Centier Bank

Civista Bank, Sandusky, Ohio

Civista Bank has created a culture where community outreach is part of everyday life. The bank works closely with local organizations such as the United Way to better understand the needs of the community and coordinate outreach to respond to those needs. Additionally the bank offers several internal giving campaigns and a PTO benefit that incentivizes participation. The United Way of Southeastern Indiana - Greater Cincinnati recognized the bank in their 2023 "Tremendous 25" list, which awards the highest per-capita giving companies. Overall, the bank believes that building trust, fostering positive relationships and contributing to the overall economic and social development of the community tell the story of community banking.

2023 Commitment to Community

Civista Bank

Community First Bank of Indiana, Kokomo Finalist

First Bank Richmond

First Federal Savings Bank, Evansville

At First Federal Savings Bank, commitment to the community is woven into the fabric of its banking philosophy. From executive-level leadership to tellers, the bank encourages staff participation in community outreach by providing volunteer opportunities during work hours, supporting employee-led initiatives and rewarding community involvement. Employees use personal and professional connections to listen to the needs of the community and are encouraged to submit sponsorship and donation requests. Organizations served in 2023 include Montessori PTO, Make a Wish, Knox County Life After Meth, Sleep in Heavenly Peace and more. By actively participating in local projects, supporting education and empowering small businesses, the bank contributes to the growth and prosperity of the community its employees call home.

2023 Commitment to Community

First Federal Savings Bank

First Harrison Bank, Corydon

First Harrison Bank's philosophy has always been, "If the communities we serve grow and thrive, we will grow and thrive along with them." The bank supports over 200 organizations in the community each year with financial support, time and talent. In 2023 the bank was recognized with the Business First Partners in Philanthropy Award, taking home fourth place for a medium-size business in the Louisville metro area. One of the bank's longest-running community efforts is serving breakfast to 4-H members and their families during fair week, which the bank has done every year since 2003. The bank has taken pride in being looked to as a community leader since its inception in 1891.

First Harrison Bank

First Merchants Bank, Muncie

For over 130 years, First Merchants Bank has acted as a bridge connecting diverse communities in the Midwest with the resources they need to thrive. The bank's efforts are guided by five community pillars: employee empowerment; community investments; financial wellness; community home lending; and diversity, equity and inclusion. In 2023 alone, the bank donated over $1.2 million. Eight dedicated and paid community service hours allow employees to engage with the community, whether it's volunteering at an event, representing the bank at a fundraiser or delivering financial literacy workshops. The bank believes that by bridging the gap to financial wellness, it empowers individuals, businesses, families and entire neighborhoods to prosper.

First Merchants Bank

First Savings Bank, Jeffersonville
